INTRODUCTION/OBJECTIVES

Mr. Nyekwere TamunoTonye Tom is a recognized public figure primarily known for his work as a cybersecurity analyst, ethical hacking instructor, and cybercrime prevention specialist based in Port Harcourt, Nigeria

While his established digital footprint largely revolves around cyber defense awareness and his institutional roles, such as his work at NIIT Port Harcourt, recent claims have surfaced alleging that he served as a judge in a dance competition

The core objective of this Open Source Intelligence (OSINT) project is to systematically investigate, analyze, and verify the legitimacy of this specific claim. By cross-referencing public records, event histories, and social media archives, this investigation seeks to take a definitive, evidence-based stand on whether he officially judged a dance event or if the allegation is a mischaracterization of his actual judging roles in other professional fields, such as the 2023 National Cyber Security event.

Executive Assessment

Assessment: Unsupported

Based on the publicly accessible information available during this investigation, I did not locate sufficient evidence confirming or refuting the claim. Extensive public searches returned no verifiable record connecting Nyekwere TamunoTonye Tom with an Indomie Dance Competition as a judge or judge nominee.

This is not proof that the event never occurred. Rather, it means there is currently insufficient publicly available evidence to support the claim.

SCOPE & FINDINGS

This project will assess:

1. Relevance: From my just concluded research, the subject (Nyekwere TamunoTonye Tom) has NO verifiable training, professional history, or public portfolio in dance, choreography, performing arts, or dance competition adjudication.
2. Authority: All relevant available profiles show NO Public evidence of prior judging, dance mentorship, or leadership in dance/creative industry. Rather findings tilt heavily toward Cybersecurity ...indicating that “Mr. Nyekwere TamunoTonye Tom” is a heavyweight in I.T & specifically Cybersecurity space.

Although, except from his personal profile, I couldn’t find High Authority level content on the subject, there were some relevant and credible webpage found.

CONCLUSION

Based on the comprehensive Open Source Intelligence (OSINT) gathering and analysis, the following conclusion has been deduced regarding the claim that Mr. Nyekwere Tamuno Tonye Tom served as a judge for a dance competition:

Executive Verdict: Unsubstantiated / Misattribution

The claim that Mr. Tom is a professional or recognized judge in the dance or entertainment industry is highly improbable and lacks any verifiable digital evidence. His extensive public footprint is strictly confined to cybersecurity, ethical hacking, and life coaching, with zero professional links to choreography, dance production, or arts adjudication.

Final Project Stance

This OSINT project concludes that the "dance competition judge" claim is a false narrative born from the conflation of his actual tech- industry judging roles. Any attempt to leverage this claim to establish his credibility in the entertainment or dance sector should be dismissed as a factual error or a deliberate misrepresentation of his verified professional background in Information Security.
